Pahokee moves toward water, sewage rate hikes

By TOM KISKEN

PAHOKEE - Water and sewage bills will increase $1.16 a month, if the Pahokee City Council grants final approval to a proposed ordinance which it tentatively approved Tuesday, Sept. 4.

In an attempt to balance the utilities department budget council members, by a 4-1 vote, instructed Attorney Mike Stauder to draw up an ordinance implementing a 60 cent increase on water rates and a 66 cent hike on sewage rates.

If the ordinance is approved, residents would be charged $6.50 for the first 3,000 gallons of water used and would also be charged $8.84 for the first 4,000 gallons of sewage.

Only Councilman Curtis Miners opposed the proposed rate hike which is scheduled to be brought back to the council in ordinance form on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Councilman Ronnie Graydon said the rate hike should raise an estimated $41,760, and put the utilities budget into the black. Noting the council probably already cut too much out of expenditures, Graydon said the rate hike was the only way to reach a balanced budget. "I just don't see cutting expenditures anymore," he said.

At a meeting, Thursday, Aug. 30, the council tentatively approved hiking rates charged to customers who have their water turned off because of unpaid bills. According to the proposal, residents would be charged $25 for having their water turned off and another $25 for switching it back on.

The council also gave tentative approval to doubling deposits for water and sewer hookups. Residents would be responsible for a $96 deposit, while businesses would have to pay a $168 deposit.

At both meetings, the council whittled down a proposed utilities budget, which at one point included a deficit of over $400,000, into balance by raising revenue expectations and cutting expenditures. The final result, a balanced budget of about $1,145,000, did not satisfy all council members.

"I can't vote for this budget, not the way it stands now," said Councilman Walter

Cox defeated in county vote

While Vernita Cox's hopes of becoming a county commissioner vanished in Tuesday's county primary, LaVoise Stepherson, of Belle Glade, remained alive in her battle to retain a seat on the school board.

South Bay's Cox received 6,896 votes in the primary to finish fourth in the Democratic race for the District 5 Commission seat, currently held by Bill Bailey. Greenacres Mayor James P. Quigley, 13,837 votes, and Luciano (Lou) Martinez, of West Palm Beach with 11,841, advanced to the Oct. 2 runoff for the District Five Democratic nomination. Ken Adams is the Republican candidate for the seat.

Cox, 52, of S.W. 12th Ave., South Bay, entered the commission race last spring, citing her 12 years on the South Bay City Commission and her ability to represent all the people. In order to run for the county seat, Cox resigned as Mayor of South Bay effective January of next year. She will have a chance to regain her seat in the city election next March.

Stepherson, of 900 S.W. Ave. E, Belle Glade, gained 14,675 votes and will face Joseph Bellucco, a career educator who gained 18,650 votes, in the Nov. 6 runoff election. Stepherson

Candidates eye BG election

By TOM KISKEN

BELLE GLADE - Experience will face the need for change in the election for two Belle Glade city commission seats, Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Mayor Thomas Altman seeks his fifth term on the election against the challenge of Linda Paulk, a counselor at the Western Area Mental Health Clinic. In the other commission race, Charles Goodlett, commissioner for the past four years and previously police chief for 30 years, faces David Hill, assistant principal at East Lake Middle School.

With two black candidates, Paulk and Hill, vying to join Commissioner Dan Bythwood on the commission, the election represents the first time ever a black majority, 3-2, could be elected.

All candidates expressed the need for all city residents to vote in the election. "Its important in next Tuesday's election that enough people vote so that whoever wins can feel they truly represent the people," Altman said. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the fire station. Election officials urge residents to bring voter identification with them to the polls.

All four city candidates discussed some of the issues at a forum organized by the Belle Glade Rotary Club held Tuesday, Sept. 4.

Altman, 32, of 809 N.E. 22nd St., advised voters to look at the decision making abilities of each of the candidates.

"Decision making—that's the most important thing we do," he said, noting that most of a candidate's campaign promises and rhetoric never come into play after election day.

Altman, who has served as mayor six of his ten years on the commission, said he tries to be as open and as fair as possible on any issue brought before the commission. Public input, he added, always plays an important role in his decision making process.

Noting that he worked for two years as an administrative aide to the city manager before being elected to the commission, Altman said he tries to view issues not only from a resident's point of view, but also as an administrator. "I know both sides of the street," he said.

Unpaid bills cause concern

By LINDA JOHNSON

BELLE GLADE - The search is on for new ways to increase revenues at Glades General Hospital due to losses caused by patients who do not or cannot pay bills.

Pat Lennon, hospital administrator, said Glades General Hospital loses 47 cents on each dollar due to patients who do not pay bills. The national average for money lost to unpaid bills is about 5 cents on the dollar.

A tax district hospital such as Glades General cannot refuse emergency service to anyone for any reason, Lennon said. Therefore, patients who cannot pay their bills cannot be refused service.

"We are not policemen," Lennon said, "if someone is in an emergency situation we take care of them."

"That is the reason we are here," he said. "But we are not a clinic." He said the hospital is having to turn away patients who are not in an emergency situation if they cannot pay.

He said people who normally go to the public clinic for non-emergency care will often go to the emergency room because the wait is shorter. They will not be allowed to do that anymore.

A major reason for the number of unpaid bills, Lennon said, is because the employment in the area attracts migrant and transient workers.

He said in drug related crimes and family fights the hospital is lucky if it collects 10 percent of the bills.

To help offset the costs of treating indigent, migrant and other patients who do not pay bills, the hospital can levy taxes against service area residents, Lennon said.

Right now, the mill levied against the district is at 8.5 percent. "We are already taxing the maximum anyone should be expected to pay," he said.

Raising taxes is one way to increase the revenues coming in, Lennon said, but is an

Drugs more important than jobs to some

By BRENDA BUNTING

BELLE GLADE - Drugs are more important than jobs to about 12 percent of the entire nation's work force, according to Charles Pendleton, nationally known authority on drug safety.

Pendleton, speaking at the Sugar Cane Safety Conference, Wednesday Aug. 29 in Belle Glade, warned industry officials of the proliferation of drugs and its effects on non-users. "Anybody who pays taxes, a proportionate amount goes to take care of drug users in jails on welfare and in hospitals," he said.

At the conference sponsored by the Florida Sugar Cane League and the Florida Bureau of Industrial Safety, sugar industry officials were honored for their dedication to safety. Special recognition for long and outstanding service was given to Chris Davidson of Osceola Farms. Davidson has been in the sugar industry for 58 years in Cuba, Guatemala and Florida.

Atlantic Sugar Association won the annual safety award, posting the lowest number of accidents in relation to amount of cane ground. Director William McQueen of the Florida Bureau of Industrial Safety and Health presented the coveted award to Ernesto Priede of Atlantic Sugar.

After the awards were given Pendleton took the podium and gave an overview of the more predominant drugs in use today. Pendleton has worked with over 200 private companies in formulating drug safety programs.

Increase vital, sugar VP says

By JIM JONES

Effective Oct. 1, government sugar price supports will be raised to 21.57 cents per pound, up from the current 21.17 cents, the rate in effect since last October, the Agriculture Department announced Friday, Aug. 31.

Dalton Yancey, executive vice president of the Florida Sugar Cane League, said Tuesday, Sept. 4, that without the increase, the domestic sugar industry would be unable to remain viable.

"This price is required because of unfair trade practices of other sugar producing nations which have over-produced and are dumping sugar on the world market," Yancey said.

He called the increase a fair one for consumer and sugar producer alike.

"It guarantees an ample supply of sugar at a reasonable price. Sugar is cheaper today than it was three years ago," he said.

Daniel Amstutz, undersecretary of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said the "market stabilization" price of raw sugar will be raised four-tenths of a cent.

The market stabilization price includes the domestic sugar price support level plus allowances for certain marketing factors, and is used to determine the level of import fees authorized by law.

The new stabilization price increase of four-tenths cents includes a 0.25 cent raise in the sugar support to 17.75 cents per pound, an increase of 0.06 cents in transportation costs to 2.68 cents, an 0.09 cent increase for interest to 0.94 cents, and no change in the incentive factor of 0.2 cents per pound.

The market stabilization price represents the price at or above which producers would be more likely to sell their sugar in the marketplace than to forfeit it to the government under the support program, Amstutz said.

There are no import fees on raw sugar. There is a one-cent per pound import fee on refined sugar. The Reagan administration uses import quotas to keep imports of raw sugar in line.

Rashley. "There's no way Mr. Balmer (utilities director) can do his job with the budget he got."

No final action was taken on the proposed budget and it will be brought back to the council at a later date.

Rashley argued that the council cut too much out of the budget, pointing specifically at the lack of a high pressure pump truck and a rebuilt lift station. Both these expenses, he said, should be council priorities, especially in light of the state imposed moratorium on the city's sewage system.

Graydon countered that the budget had to be cut somewhere to be brought into balance. Hopefully additional monies, such as federal revenue sharing funds, will become available later in the year, he said. "I don't want to do away with the lift station or the truck anymore than anyone else," he said.

Balmer told the council that the budget cuts would make his job just that much harder. The cuts may hit hardest in personnel, he said, noting council members had proposed either cutting or eliminating all of his proposed salary raises. "All my key people I'm probably going to lose," he said.

Graydon said the proposed budget would give a 5 percent pay hike to every employee who had been with the city for more than six months and had not received a recent raise. Balmer's personal salary would be raised about $3,000 to $28,000. He had originally asked for $30,000.

Paving set to begin

BELLE GLADE

Paving on Northwest G Avenue was scheduled to begin Wednesday, Sept. 6.

City Public Works Director Frank Green cautioned drivers that work on streets may cause some inconvenience and a few detours.

Green said Ranger Construction, of West Palm Beach, was slated to pave one block of Northwest Avenue G, between First and Second Streets, and then proceed on the West Coast Street North and work on a three block stretch from Fifth to Eighth Street.

The crew is also supposed to pave Northwest Avenue D, from Eighth Street to State Road 715.

s attempting to retain the District 7 seat to which she was appointed earlier this summer, replacing Sam Loyall.

In deciding to run for a permanent board seat, Stepherson cited the need for Glades representation. Director of Taylor's Funeral Home, Stepherson is a former school teacher.

In other races, Jerry Owens defeated Mark Foley for the Democratic nomination for the District 3 County Commission seat. Owens will face either Bill Bullwinkel or Bill Perry in the Nov. 6 election. Republican Herb Evatt and Democrat Karen T. Marcus advanced in the District 1 commission race.

Sheriff Richard Wille collected more than three times the vote of his nearest opponent in earning the Republican nomination for sheriff. Frank Cave and Bob Herron will face each other in an Oct. 2 runoff for the right to oppose Wille in the general election.

Opinion

Vote Tuesday

By LINDA JOHNSON

With the coming of the Belle Glade city election, Tuesday, Sept. 11, it is once again time to talk about the importance of voting and making your voice heard. This is old news now and everyone has heard it all before, so what is the point?

This question was answered at the Belle Glade Civic Center, Tuesday, one of the main polling places for the county primary election. Election officials said at 1 p.m. that fewer than 100 people had turned out to vote. Granted, this is "only" a primary, but primaries count too.

What else is new? There are more and more articles and editorials written every year on the importance of voting, (many of them written by people who do not vote) yet it seems that fewer and fewer people turn out to vote at each election.

Jesse Jackson, no matter what anyone thinks of his politics, has done more than anyone in the last decade or more to increase awareness in the importance of voter registration and voting. He is not just aiming for black registration, although that is important to him, but he is aiming to get all people to vote.

Women are another group that could have a tremendous impact on the politics of this nation if they would only vote. Many things could be changed, possibly for the better, if women did vote more.

In 1980, President Reagan was elected by only one-fourth of the total qualified population. Meaning, only one-half of the legally qualified population is registered to vote and only one half of them actually voted for Reagan.

What more can be said? People who do not vote have no right to complain about whoever is in office.

If nothing else, voting at least gives you the right to complain about your local or federal politicians whether or not you voted for them.

Working the Caloosahatchee 70 years ago

Editor's note: The following is the third in a series recounting the early experiences of Betty Roberts' father, Steven Augustus "Gus" Roberts and family.

As Told By BETTY ROBERTS BOWEN
To RUTH IRVIN

In 1911 the "Caloosahatchee" was 20 miles down the canal. The expected barge of oil had not arrived and fuel was low. Daddy and his deck hand, a boy by the name of Strickland, and he took the one launch, the "Red Devil," and went to find what had happened. They left the dredge at 4 and chugged up the swift flowing canal. They had almost reached the lake when they found the barge. The tug boat captain had turned it loose to float down stream. The 90 foot barge had got crossways in the 60 foot canal where it made a dam and held back a great head of water.

Daddy and his helper had to dig in muck with his push pole all day. He backed up the launch and eroded the banks with the propeller. Just before dark the barge broke loose and he tied on a line with the launch headed to the barge. He decided to oil the engine and unfortunately, his helper left the wheel to lay out a snack for them to eat. The "Red Devil" headed for the bank. The barge overtook the launch, pushing her out into the bank. Daddy leaped and attached it around the towing berths in hopes the barge would pull the "Red Devil" back into the canal. Instead, the launch lay on her side and the barge turned crossways. Now they were stranded.

All night, all the next day and almost all of the next night they dug with the push pole, swatting mosquitoes as they worked. Finally, the tug appeared with a fresh barge of oil. The powerful tug soon had the barge free. It also launched the "Red Devil" which was none the worse except for a smashed canopy. Daddy noticed that the tug boat captain, instead of getting ahead, lashed along side of the barge. The "Red Devil" was towed behind the barge. After awhile someone noticed that the launch was not there—it had angled against the canal bank and broken loose. They arrived back at the "Caloosahatchee" to find that it had been shut down for two days for lack of fuel.

Captain Forrey lost an eye while they were still digging on the North New River Canal. A tooth was broken on the dipper and it was set down on the canal bank. Captain Forrey was supervising the cutting up the rivets on the broken tooth. A deck hand was holding a handled coil chisel to the rivet head while another man struck vigorously with a sledge. A splinter of steel struck Captain Forrey in the eye. He had no recourse except to go to a hospital in Tampa, a trip that required several days. His eye had to be removed. He was soon back on the job.

Daddy was ambitious. He had borrowed $1,000 from friendly Captain Forrey and the Bank of Bartow to buy a fine herd of cattle in his home town. He dedicated his life for a year with never a day off, to pay back his debt. He achieved his goal before the end of the year with enough money left over to order a complete suit of new clothes from the Sears and Roebuck catalog, and enough money beyond that to take a trip to civilization.

The towboat with a barge of fuel and oil the monthly pay checks arrived on schedule. Daddy bathed and dressed himself in his new clothes, complete with hat, and stepped forth on deck at the tug boat-touted its intention to depart. The crew had assembled to bid him goodbye. A mooring line stretched taut by the rolling of the dredge surged up, caught Daddy between the legs, and tossed him head over heels into a pool of crude oil on the deck. Daddy clucked his new clothes overboard in disgust and refused to leave for another month.

He had his herd of cattle free and clear, however, and one time he brought great comfort to Aunt Beulah. She had been very sick and as she began to recover she told Daddy that she wanted a steak. He told her that he would go into town and get one for her. "Buddy, I want a steak from one of your steers," she insisted. He butchered a steer and cut a steak to please her.

Daddy went home between jobs or whenever he could to see about his mother, brothers, and sisters. They were his main concern for many years.

The North New River Canal was finished and open to boat traffic on April 12, 1912. There was now a cross state water way from Ft. Lauderdale to Ft. Myers. Great land sales were being made out of the Bolles Hotel in Lake Harbor, then known as Ritta, and they increased with the opening to the North New River Canal to Ft. Lauderdale. Land buyers were brought in then from Ft. Lauderdale as well as Ft. Myers and other land companies began to sell land. Many boats were on the lake and in the canals by this time. There was big time commercial fishing in the lake as well as the sale of land going on. Farmers were soon to come in to farm their plots or rich black muck. There was increasing boat traffic on the lake.

Captain W. Scott Holloway had been the skipper of the dredge "Everglades" that had started at the Ft. Lauderdale end of the North New River Canal in 1906 with Governor Broward on board to officially see his pet project off to a good start. Scott's younger brother Hank worked on the dredge with him. Daddy was destined to work with them over a period of many years dredging in the Glades.

The "Caloosahatchee" had stayed with the New North River Canal job until it had dug very near the Broward County line, about 32 miles west of Ft. Lauderdale. The hard rock near the surface prevented further digging. The dredge was taken back to the lake, cleaning the bottom of the canal as she moved along.

A good shepherd

Column by Rev. David T. Evans.

Is the image of the good shepherd out of date. Is the idea of Christ as a shepherd out of date.

Today companies are concerned about their corporate image; professional organizations, doctors, lawyers, want to present the proper image to the public.

One of the oldest professional images we have in the Bible is that of the shepherd: Abel was a keeper of sheep. Abraham had flocks of sheep and Moses was watching his father-in-law's sheep when he saw the burning bush in the wilderness. David, the great king of Israel, was a shepherd boy when Samuel selected him for his future kingship.

In the New Testament Jesus announces to his disciples, "I am the good shepherd, I know my own sheep and they know me. I will lay down my life for my sheep." What kind of image has the shepherd conveyed in your mind? We had sheep raisers in a community I used to live in. One man raised 400 lambs a year. During the lambing season he spent nearly all of his time with the sheep, yet he did not fit the picture of a shepherd.

Let us look at the shepherd of the time of Jesus. He lived with the sheep all the time. The land was inhabited by wild animals.

The shepherd wore a garment of sheep skin, usually with the fleeces on the inside. He carried a bag made of the skin of an animal, in which he carried his foot-bread, dried fruit, olives, and cheese. He had a sling of which we have heard of from our earliest day in the story of David and Goliath.

The Israelites had a reputation for being skilled with the sling; they could sling a stone at a hair and not miss. The shepherd could drop a stone just in front of the sheep so that the sheep would stop and turn back.

The shepherd had a rod which he carried on his belt; it was a heavy piece of wood, perhaps three feet long, with a lump the size of an orange at one end.

The rod was very familiar to us, was a long crooked stick with a crook to pull the straying sheep back. In spite of the antiquity of his calling, the shepherd was not accepted by the orthodox religious person since he could not observe the complicated rules of hand washing and ceremonial cleansing.

In the east, sheep are usually kept for wool and milk, whereas, in the west, they are mainly used in the production of meat.

So, in Palestine, the sheep might stay in a flock eight or nine years and the shepherd might actually know every sheep by name. The shepherd did not drive the sheep but would walk in front and they followed him. The sheep actually knew the voice of the shepherd.

Dr. David T. Evans

Presbyterian Church

At the sound of a stranger's voice, the sheep would run for the protection of the faithful guardian.

Eighteenth century traveler in Palestine tells that the sheep in Palestine were taught to dance, slow or fast, to the whistle or a flute tune of their own shepherd. The shepherd was solitary, courageous, and patient, with a spirit of self-sacrifice.

How does this description fit in with Jesus Christ? Jesus knows his sheep. He stays close to them and calls each by name. We are the sheep and His call comes to us through a parent, a friend, or the preached or written word.

The good shepherd is ever watchful over his sheep. No wild animals are stalking us, but the temptation and pressure of this life are a constant danger.

At times the sheep would be housed in a cave at night with the shepherd blocking the entrance. If anyone attempted to get at the sheep, he must go over the shepherd. Jesus says, "I am the door of the sheep."

He will protect you with his life. He says, This promise He carried out on the Cross.

Ministers are called pastors, and pastor is the Latin word for shepherd. Being the shepherd to a part of God's flock is a tremendous responsibility. All pastors look to Jesus Christ as a pattern for life.

The image of the good shepherd is one of strength and courage, unceasing vigilance, and infinite patience, and of one willing to speak the Word of God with courage. He is always on guard to his love for the sheep.

The shepherd also has patience, developed over years of watching his sheep, knowing how slowly they develop. The element which binds the characteristics together into a bond of loyalty is his love for the sheep.

When Jesus speaks of sheep, He is speaking to us, of course. Sheep are easily led astray—as we are, but we have the good shepherd.

The image of the shepherd may seem to be "out of date." He is old-fashioned, if it is such, to be courageous, vigilant, patient, and loving. Actually, each Christian should seek to pattern his life after the good shepherd, being shepherds of a part of God's flock.

We have a responsibility, born out of love which God has for us, to be a shepherd to our family, friends, and those with whom we come in contact.

Election

in the city are: expanding the marina; revising the city code ordinance; and the development and growth of the city economic development council, Altman said.

The economic development council will hopefully devise methods of attracting new industry to Belle Glade, he said.

Housing has always been an important concern in Belle Glade, Altman said. Pointing at 132 lower income families who now own their homes, he added that the city is working toward enabling low-income families to purchase homes, rather than simply subsidizing housing.

Paulk
Linda Paulk, 33, of 500 N.W. 15th St., told rotarians that she represented the need for change on the city commission.

"We still have a choice and now is the time for that choice," she said. Socialization director of the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Center, Paulk said that if elected she would represent all people, regardless of race, color or creed. While saying Mayor Altman has done his best as a commissioner for the past 10 years, Paulk said, "It's time for someone who would represent everyone."

Streets, housing and industry are areas where much improvement is needed, according to Paulk. As a commissioner, she said, she would support the formation of action committees to study the city's most critical needs. The committees could determine the extent of problems and make recommendations for future improvement.

Born in Belle Glade, Paulk said she has spent most of her life in the Glades area. Paulk worked on the Jesse Jackson campaign and also is a member of the Democratic Executive Committee and the Black Coalition.

Goodlett
Charles Goodlett stresses his 34 years of experience in municipal government and his familiarity with the city's residents as his main selling points.

"My strong point is I've been here all those many years and everybody knows me," he said.

Goodlett, 66, of 1824 W. Canal St. S., said he is confident of his chances Tuesday. "I feel like I'm going to win," he said simply.

Noting that some people have predicted a strong voter turnout would favor challenger David Hill, Goodlett said he did not think the turnout would have much affect on the result. Regardless, he said, he hoped for a high turnout. "That's the most important thing—to get people out there."

Goodlett said current projects which he hoped to continue working on include paving city streets and developing the marina.

"We've got 80 miles of streets and we have very little finances to go with it," he said, in explaining the city's main barrier to improving road conditions.

Pointing at plans to pave about two miles of streets during the next year, Goodlett said the commission is trying to tackle the problem. "Hopefully, this is just a start."

The city just recently regained title of the marina from the South Florida Water Management District and Goodlett said the city's marina development committee, of which he is chairman, is preparing a report of recommended improvements to the area. Hopefully, the marina, especially the campground will be expanded significantly, he said.

Goodlett also said that a major part of a commissioner's responsibility is just dealing with any matters brought up at commission meetings. Often the most important issues are addressed solely at commission meetings, he said.

Hill
David Hill, 51, of 601 S.W. 13th St., said, "I'm highly qualified and I think I can do the job for the city."

Hill, a city resident since 1946, said he thought his chances for election were good, if the voters turn out. He said his campaign has progressed nicely and has netted some strong support.

Areas of concern targeted by Hill include: sewer system, garbage collection, streets and industry. He said he had plans to improve these areas which he would implement as a commissioner.

Belle Glade needs to bring in diverse industry, Hill said, recommending the formation of a tri-city business council which would seek out prospective industrial newcomers. "By bringing in different industry maybe we could furnish year round employment," he said.

The housing problem, Hill said, could be improved by injecting outside contractors into the area. He said he knew of some companies which may be interested in building here.

Hill said he is opposed to raising taxes and is a strong believer in tight budgeting. "I believe in going through budgets with a fine tooth comb."

A member of the Glades General Hospital Authority Board, Hill said the hospital has only raised its millage slightly in the last few years.

Hill said his experience on several community groups including the hospital board and the Palm Beach County Human Rights Board, would help him as a commissioner. Hill served as chairman of the county's first human rights board.

Woman allegedly throws toilet bowl cleaner at man

BELLE GLADE—After allegedly throwing liquid toilet bowl cleaner in a man's face Tuesday, Aug. 28, a local woman was charged with aggravated battery.

Belle Glade Detective W.P. Kenny reported that Johnnie Mae Lewis, 23, of 276 S.W. Sixth St., apparently began arguing with Vic Jacob McCranny, 27, of Belle Glade, Friday evening. Allegedly, after being punched in the face, Lewis retaliated by throwing the cleaner, called muretic acid, into the man's face. McCranny was treated for second-degree burns at Glades General Hospital.

In other arrests: Lenora Jones Jr., of 408 S.W. Ave. B, was charged with dealing in stolen property, early Sunday morning. Sept. 2, Lt. Louis L. Lowery said police recovered a Western Flyer bicycle in Jones' possession, late Saturday evening.

The bike was returned to Juslet Jean Baptiste, of 509 Fifth St., No. 6. Lowery noted that the police were because the bike was registered.

alternative the hospital is trying to avoid. An alternative to raising taxes is reducing services at the hospital, Lennan said. However, limiting services might cause an increase in medical malpractice liability suits.

Both a tax increase and a service reduction are alternatives that will only be considered as a last resort by the hospital, Lennan said. Glades General has initiated a few programs that might help the situation in the near future, Lennan said.

One program being considered by the Florida Hospital Cost Containment Board would reimburse hospitals for some of the costs they incur in treating indigent patients. According to the program, Lennan said, all state hospitals would contribute to the fund; how much, depends on the assets of each particular hospital. At some later point the money will be divided up among the hospitals in the Florida. Glades General Hospital was told by the Hospital Cost Containment Board that they would have to contribute $70,000 to the state fund, Lennan said. Not all the details have been worked out yet as far as dates of when money goes in and when it can be taken out, he said.

The new birthing center at the hospital should also bring in money, Lennan said, as well as the new kidney dialysis room that will be available soon.

"We have also joined a consortium of six other hospitals that have secured long term financing," Lennan said. The financing is similar to an industrial revenue bond in that hospitals can borrow money at a certain interest rate and reinvest it at a higher rate, he explained.

"We are looking at any kind of way we can generate cash," he said. "It is very competitive in the hospital business."

34 enter tournament

PAHOKEE—Some 34 city residents competed in the Labor Day tennis tournament held at the Lake Club.

"We just had a super tourney, 34 is a real good turnout for the Glades," said Alice Thompson, tournament organizer.

Dewitt Dulany and Joel Payayab won the men's doubles event.

Woody Salvatore and Diane Carter won the mixed doubles title. Juddy Boggs and Alice Thompson won the women's event.

JOEL PAYAYAB helps his team to the men's doubles championship in the Labor Day doubles tourney at the Lake Club.

Christian Day boys win one in jamboree

The Christian Day football team fared well against the opposition in Saturday night's jamboree at St. Edwards High School. Coach James Jacks said they lost their first quarter against St. Edwards High School, 6-0, because of their own mistakes. "We didn't want to make them, but we needed to see where our strengths were," The Crusaders defeated Melvin Catholic School, 8-0 in their second quarter. "The offensive line looked tremendous for the first time," Jacks said. The team will depend on three running backs this season, he said. Jacks said the defense looked good too. "I was real pleased with the defense. We held everyone to less yardage than we got ourselves." Christian Day's first home game of the season is Saturday, Sept. 8 at 2 p.m. against Miami County Day School. Jacks pointed out that Miami County has a big advantage in experience with 17 seniors. Christian Day has three seniors. "They are packed with experience and we do not have any," he said. "But we have guts and we will get out and play some football."

Glades Day Gators clean up in jamboree

The Glades Day Gators cleaned up in the second and third quarters of last Friday's, Aug. 31, jamboree held in Moore Haven.

In the second quarter, the Gators scored the only touchdown against Benjamin High School with a resulting score of 7 to 0. Wade McMillan scored the winning points.

Warren McMillan repeated Wade's play by scoring against Moore Haven with a touchdown ending out the third quarter 6 to 0. "We played fairly well. We found out the kids in back-up that will be able to help us as the season progresses. They will be able to fill in spots for us," said Gators Coach Byron Walker, Jr.

The Gators open their season on Friday, Sept. 14 against Bishop Verot in Ft. Myers.

Softball tourney planned to aid Muscular Dystrophy

BELLE GLADE—The Second Annual Muscular Dystrophy softball tournament will be held at Airport Park, Friday through Sunday, Sept. 14-16. Teams can enter the tourney by contacting Tom Bonavia in the evenings at 996-1299. Entry deadline is Wednesday, Sept. 12, and the fee is $100 for each team.

Competition will be held in two divisions with play beginning Friday at 8 p.m. Team trophies will be distributed to first, second and third place winners. All members and coaches of each championship team will also win MDA nylon windbreakers. Bonavia said last year 24 teams competed in the tourney netting about $2,400 for MDA.

Fishing Report

Courtesy of Tennessee's Pro Guide Service
The fishing on Lake O this past week has been terrific.

Several big fish, 8-10 pounds, have been caught on big wild shiners. Most of the local guides had had a good week. Red shad worms still do the trick along with small top-water lures and spinner baits, both white and chartreuse.

Flipping or pitching seemed to be the answer for the anglers who took home top prize in last Saturday's Bass'n Buddy Tournament at Slim's Marina.

Some specks are starting to show in the late afternoon on green jigs and minnows. Bluegill fishing has been pretty good also. This week alone, seven limits of 50 fish a person were caught on worms.

Shell crackers have been a mystery this year. If you look hard, you can still find them on beds as I did again this week. This is a fine eating fish fried real slow in butter.

Until next week safe boating and keep on fishing.

Clewiston Mayor dies after illness

By JIM JONES

Mayor Fred Cone Sikes, 72, a Renaissance man who helped steer Clewiston through thick and thin for more than a quarter century, died at his home Thursday, Aug. 30.

Mr. Sikes suffered from emphysema and had been hospitalized frequently this year. Despite his bouts with the disease, he chaired the Hendry County Hospital Authority meeting as recently as Aug. 21.

Funeral services were held 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 1, at First United Methodist Church of Clewiston. Rev. Charlie Hayes officiated. An over-flow crowd of friends, and respectful business and government associates attended. Interment followed at Ridgewood Cemetery.

Gaynam D. Rackstraw, one of the pallbearers at the funeral, served at one time as president of the union at U. S. Sugar Corp.

As such, his relationship with Mr. Sikes, who was personnel director and labor negotiator for U. S. Sugar Corp. until 1976, was initially an adversarial one. A strong and lasting friendship, however, soon began to develop.

"He had one of the most brilliant minds I've ever known in contact with. He was a really outstanding person," Rackstraw said. "He is going to be hard to replace. I don't know if we will ever find anyone who can unselfishly do the things he did. He did those things not only for the employees of U. S. Sugar, but for anyone who needed help. He never refused to help, never."

Dan McCarthy, another long-time associate, echoed Rackstraw's sentiments. "Fred was just that type of person, a truly, truly fine man."

In an interview published in April of 1983, Mr. Sikes told The News that he had inherited his belief in public service from his father. "Public service, elected or not, pays for the space we occupy on earth," he said.

Mr. Sikes had two years remaining on his term as city commissioner. Indications are the commissioners will appoint someone to serve the remainder of his term.

Although Mr. Sikes had retired from USSC in 1976, he remained active until the end.

He served 37 years on the Hendry County Hospital Authority, 26 years on the city commission, and was a director for Clewiston National Bank, a director for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Hendry County, president of the Grace/Henry Bar Association, a director of the Florida Community Health Center, a charter member of First United Methodist Church, and co-owner of Everglades Title and Abstract Co.

Mr. Sikes was appointed to the Hendry County Hospital Authority in 1947, along with E. E. "Pop" Kelly, W. W. Perry, Blitz Wegman, and Earl Murray.

In 1951, Hendry General Hospital was opened.

Mr. Sikes was serving as chairman of the hospital authority at the time of his death.

He first ran for the Clewiston City Commission in 1953. He would eventually serve more than 26 years as city commissioner, including four terms as mayor.

His service as city commissioner and as a hospital authority member was unpaid.

Pallbearers for his funeral included Earl Morrison, Albert Cresbie, John C. Perry, Dan McCarthy, Claude Wiley, and Gaynam Rackstraw.

In addition to his wife and two children, Mr. Sikes is also survived by two sisters, Anna Clark of Waterloo, Ind., and Minnie Lee Jones of Fort Wayne, Ind.; and three grandsons.

potential drug problems. Employees with a drug problem are: late more often, request early dismissal, absenteeism is 16 times greater and sick leave is three times the normal level.

Drug uses are five times more likely to file workman's compensation and are five times more likely to have accidents, Pendleton said.

Pendleton asked the employees of the various sugar mills what they thought were some of the reasons people use drugs on the job.

Responses included stress and pressure on the job, inability to cope with their job. Pendleton said he thought the number one reason was boredom in the workplace and part of the solution was to keep employees busy.

Other responses the audience gave included relaxation, peer pressure, curiosity and depression. One respondent drew laughs from the crowd when he said he was working seven days a week and didn't have time to do anything else.

Pendleton said marijuana is the leading cash crop in the United States, surpassing corn. Marijuana and pills are the biggest problem in the workplace, according to Pendleton. He said there are 25 million regular users of marijuana.

Warning signs of marijuana users, he said, include: drowsiness, bloodshot eyes, dilated pupils and slurred speech.

Following the speech, Pendleton presented a display filled with different kinds of drugs and paraphernalia, including ordinary objects used every day on the job.

34 enter tournament

PAHOKEE—Some 34 city residents competed in the Labor Day tennis tournament held at the Lake Club.

"We just had a super tourney, 34 is a real good turnout for the Glades," said Alice Thompson, tournament organizer.

Dewitt Dulany and Joel Payayab won the men's doubles event.

JOEL PAYAYAB helps his team to the men's doubles championship in the Labor Day doubles tourney at the Lake Club.

Christian Day boys win one in jamboree

The Christian Day Catholic School, 8-0 in their second quarter.

"The offensive line looked tremendous for the first time," Jacks said. "The team will depend on three running backs this season, he said."

Jacks said the defense looked good too. "I was real pleased with the defense. We held everyone to less yardage than we got ourselves."

The Crusaders defeated Melvin home game of the season is Saturday, Sept. 8 at 2 p.m. against Miami County Day School. Jacks pointed out that Miami County has a big advantage in experience with 17 seniors. Christian Day has three seniors.

"They are packed with experience and we do not have any," he said. "But we have gut guys and we will get out and play some football."

Glades Day Gators clean up in jamboree

The Glades Day Gators cleaned up in the second and third quarters of last Friday's, Aug. 31, jamboree held in Moore Haven.

In the second quarter, the Gators scored the only touchdown against Benjamin Ditch School with a resulting score of 7 to 0. Wade McMillan scored the winning points.

Warren McMillan repeated Wade's play by scoring against Moore Haven with a touchdown ending out the third quarter 6 to 0.

"We played fairly well. We found out the keys in back-up that will be able to help us as the season progresses. They will be able to fill in spots for us," said Gators Coach Byron Walker, Jr.

The Gators open their season on Friday, Sept. 14 against Bishop Verot in Ft. Myers.

Softball tourney planned to aid Muscular Dystrophy

BELLE GLADE—The Second Annual Muscular Dystrophy softball tournament

Teams can enter the tourney by contacting Tom Bonovia in the evenings at 996-1299.

Bonovia said last year 24 teams competed in the tourney netting about $2,400 for MDA.

Fishing Report

Courtesy of Tennessee's Pro Guide Service

The fishing on Lake O this past week has been terrific.

Several big fish, 8-10 pounds, have been caught on big wild shiners. Most of the local guides had had a good week. Red shad worms still do the trick along with small top-water lures and spinner baits, both white and chartreuse.

Flipping or pitching seemed to be the answer for the anglers who took home top prize in last Saturday's Bass'n Buddy Tournament at Slim's Marina.

Some species are starting to show in the late afternoon on green jigs and minnows. Bluegill fishing has been pretty good also. This week alone, seven limits of 50 fish a person were caught on worms.

Shell crackers have been a mystery this year. If you took back, you can still find them on beds as I did again this week. This is a fine eating fish fried real slow in butter.

Until next week safe boating and keep on fishing.

Clewiston Mayor dies after illness

By JIM JONES

Mayor Fred Cone Sikes, 72, a Renaissance man who helped steer Clewiston through thick and thin for more than a quarter century, died at his home Thursday, Aug. 30.

Mr. Sikes suffered from emphysema and had been hospitalized frequently this year. Despite his bouts with the disease, he chaired the Hendry County Hospital Authority meeting as recently as Aug. 21.

Funeral services were held 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 1, at First United Methodist Church of Clewiston. Rev. Charlie Hayes officiated. An overflow crowd of friends, and respectful business and government associates attended. Interment followed at Ridgeland Cemetery.

Gaynam D. Rackstraw, one of the pallbearers at the funeral, served at one time as president of the union at U. S. Sugar Corp.

As such, his relationship with Mr. Sikes, who was personnel director and labor negotiator for U. S. Sugar Corp. until 1976, was initially an adversarial one. A strong and lasting friendship, however, soon began to develop.

"He had one of the most brilliant minds I've ever come in contact with. He was a really outstanding person," Rackstraw said. "He is going to be hard to replace. I don't know if we will ever find anyone who can unselfishly do for things he did. He did those things not only for the employees of U. S. Sugar, but for anyone who needed help. He never refused to help, never."

Dan McCarthy, another long-time associate, echoed Rackstraw's sentiments. "Fred was just that type of person, a truly, truly fine man."

In an interview published in April of 1983, Mr. Sikes told The News that he had inherited his belief in public service from his father. "Public service, elected or not, pays for the space we occupy on earth," he said.

Mr. Sikes had two years remaining on his term as city commissioner. Indications are the commissioners will appoint someone to serve the remainder of his term.

Although Mr. Sikes had retired from USSC in 1976, he remained active until the end.

He served 37 years on the Hendry County Hospital Authority, 26 years on the city commission, and was a director for Clewiston National Bank, a director for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Hendry County, president of the Glades-Hendry Bar Association, a director of the Florida Community Health Center, a charter member of First United Methodist Church, and co-owner of Everglades Title and Abstract Co.

Mr. Sikes was appointed to the Hendry County Hospital Authority in 1947, along with E. E. "Pop" Kelly, W. W. Perry, Blitz Wegman, and Earl Murray.

In 1951, Hendry General Hospital was opened. Mr. Sikes was serving as chairman of the hospital authority at the time of his death.

He first ran for the Clewiston City Commission in 1953. He would eventually serve more than 26 years as city commissioner, including four terms as mayor.

His service as city commissioner and as a hospital authority member was unpaid.

Pallbearers for his funeral included Earl Morrison, Albert Crosbie, John C. Perry, Dan McCarthy, Claude Wiley, and Gaynam Rackstraw.

In addition to his wife and two children, Mr. Sikes is also survived by two sisters, Anne Clark of Waterloo, Ind., and Minnie Lee Jones of Fort Wayne, Ind.; and three grandsons.

potential drug problems: Employees with a drug problem are, late more often, request early dismissal, absenteeism is 16 times greater and sick leave is three times the normal level.

Drug uses are five times more likely to file workman's compensation and are five times more likely to have accidents, Pendleton said.

Pendleton asked the employees of the various sugar mills what they thought were some of the reasons people use drugs on the job.

Responses included stress and pressure on the job, inability to cope with their job. Pendleton said he thought the number one reason was boredom in the workplace and part of the solution was to keep employees busy.

Other responses the audience gave included relaxation, peer pressure, curiosity and depression. One respondent drew laughs from the crowd when he said he was working seven days a week and didn't have time to do anything else.

Pendleton said marijuana is the leading cash crop in the United States, surpassing corn.

Marijuana and pills are the biggest problem in the workplace, according to Pendleton. He said there are 25 million regular users of marijuana.

Warning signs of marijuana users, he said, include: drowsiness, bloodshot eyes, dilated pupils and slurred speech.

Following the speech, Pendleton presented a display filled with different kinds of drugs and paraphernalia, including ordinary objects used every day on the job.

Rail season starts Sept.

Rails and gallinules are legal game for hunters through Nov. 9. However, for permitted falconers the season will remain open through Dec. 13.

Legal shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset, and bag limits are: clapper and king rails, 15 daily and 15 in possession;

sora and Virginia rails, 25 daily and 25 in possession; and common gallinule, 15 daily and 30 in possession.

School night for Cub Scouting planned in Glades

School Night for Cub Scouting will be held Thursday night, September 13, at 7:30 p.m., for the Glades Scout District, including Clewiston, Belle Glade, Pahokee, and South Bay.

According to Scout officials, several schools and churches will be open to receive new Cub Scouts and adult leaders. This is a major phase of the fall round-up of youth members and adults in the Gulf Stream Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Prospective boys 8 to 10 years of age are invited to attend this special meeting at a school or church in the neighborhood. Invitations will be distributed in the third, fourth, and fifth grades. All Cub Scouts are asked to wear their uniforms to school on September 13th to remind other boys they see too can become Cub Scouts. Leaders of all Cub Scout packs will be participating.

School night meetings will be held at Clewiston Primary School, W.C. Owens Avenue; and at Friendship Baptist church, Tennessee Avenue, Harlem.

Gladeview Elementary School, 5 SW Avenue G, Belle Glade; Community United Methodist Church, 401 SW First Street, Belle Glade; and at St. Phillip-Benita Catholic Church, 708 South Main Street, Belle Glade.

In Pahokee, meetings will be held at Pahokee Elementary School, 500 East Main Place; and at the First United Methodist Church, 491 East Main Street, Pahokee.

In South Bay, a meeting will be held at Rosenwald Elementary School. The Cub Scout program will be explained in detail to those attending. Boys should bring their parents or guardians. Registration fees will vary from pack to pack, but will be approximately $3.00 for boys, $5.00 for adults, and $5.40 for Boys Life magazine. The object of Cub Scouts is to train youngsters 8-10 character, citizenship, and mental and physical fitness. This is accomplished through a planned program of crafts, games, achievement awards, and parent participation. Boys meet each week for about an hour and a half in a den, leader's home. Dens of from 6 to 8 boys each come together with parents once a month for a pack meeting.

Webelos dens are for 10-year-old boys who have a male leader. The Webelos program prepares the youngsters for a Boy Scout troop.

Berner named president

Debbie Berner, manager of marketing and communications for Briley, Wild and Associates, Inc., consulting engineers for the City of Belle Glade, has assumed the presidency of the Florida Chapter of the Society for Marketing Professional Services (SMPS). She served last year in the office of vice president/president-elect.

Ms. Berner has been with the nationally recognized firm of consulting engineers since June, 1982, working from the headquarters in Ormond Beach. Briley, Wild also has offices in Clearwater and Bradenton—and a newly opened Orlando office in the Hillcrest Plaza.

In 1983, Ms. Berner was one of the few non-engineers named to a special FICE task force in recognition of her work in coordinating the exhibit and text for a Briley, Wild entry that became the first from Florida to win the prestigious Grand National Award for Engineering Excellence from the American Consulting Engineers Council. The entry described Briley, Wild's use of ozone to remove cancer-causing elements from drinking water.

The Society for Marketing Professional Services provides guidance and support for marketing professionals through seminars, publications, employment assistance and annual conferences. It sponsors a professional development seminar in cooperation with the University of Virginia's Division of Continuing Education and the McIntire School of Commerce.

The Florida chapter of SMPS sponsored two workshops in the past year, the most recent a daylong session in Orlando in May on how to make an effective presentation.

The new vice president/president-elect of the chapter is Ron Pecora, vice president of marketing, for Jammal and Associates, Inc., a consulting engineering firm headquartered in Winter Park.

Leak causes BG evacuation

BELLE GLADE —A small ammonia leak at the City Products for Plant, 940 N.W. Ninth St., on Thursday night, Aug. 30, caused a preventative evacuation of all persons living within 2,000 feet of the plant.

Fire Department Captain Jesse Womack said, "It was not much as we thought but it had a big potential."

checking the rest of the system to make sure the shut down would not cause any problems later on, Womack said. Residents were allowed to return to their homes within an hour of the initial evacuation.

The leak occurred at 7:10 p.m. Residents were evacuated from the area while the fire department shut the plant down and checked a leak coming from a glass tube that indicates the level of ammonia, Womack said. The fire department stopped the leak within fifteen minutes and spent another half hour

Locals return from WWII P.T. reunion

HOUSTON, TX. Ed and Letha Rice of Belle Glade have returned from Houston following a weekend at Adam's Mark Hotel, Aug. 23-27 where the 20th annual P.T. Boaters reunion was held.

More than 500 former sailors who manned or supported Patrol Torpedo (PT) Boat and their families and friends attended. Seven widows from PT Boaters and more than a score of second generation and many third generation PT Boaters.

Reunion-goers attended a rodeo, a barbecue. The program also included a memorial service, banquet and award's night, a business meeting, a board meeting for newly elected officers and directors and a trip to NASA, the Astro dome and Galveston.

According to Rice, the PT service was special. "You developed a unique kind of camaraderie that has survived the decades since the war and it's grown to include our wives and kids, who get just as big a kick out of the reunions as we old timers swapping sea stories, reminiscing and making new friends. You never know who you haven't seen in 40 years."

The non-profit, 8,800 member PT organization maintains a library and museum at Battleship Cove, Fall River, MA.

Course focuses on the family

St. Peter's Lutheran Church, 125 E. Canal St., Belle Glade, will offer the course, "Focus on the Family," which is based on a series of taped conversations with noted author and family psychologist Dr. James C. Dobson.

These tapes contain tips on improving family living spiced with humor and anecdote. The series has been widely acclaimed throughout the United States. Dr. Dobson's style is both positive and down-to-earth. He is unabashedly Biblical in his approach to family situations, using as his chief text, the Bible.

The course will be team taught by the Rev. Nick Kiesechnick, pastor of St. Peter's, and Mr. Jon Wareham, principal of St. Peter's Lutheran School. The first session will meet this Sunday, September 9, at 9 a.m. in the church sanctuary. The course will last approximately 13 weeks. The public is especially welcome and there is no charge.

Pastor Kiesechnick said, "I hope a lot of people take the opportunity to learn more about the Christian family. I firmly believe, as does Dr. Dobson, that applying practical biblical principles can improve family life and living. We are very happy to offer this lecture series to the community."

At the same time Sunday School classes are offered for children and teenagers from 3 years old through high school age.

Glades Central Raiders face questions

By TOM KISKEN

BELLE GLADE—Inexperience is the biggest barrier facing the 1984 Glades Central Community High School Raiders, according to Coach Dan Brown.

"The one thing about this team is that we're so green," he said, pointing at the loss of 25 players to graduation. Among those gone are All American lineman Rhondy Weston, now with the University of Florida; Tim Sims, University of Miami; John Ford, University of Virginia; Willie Snead, University of Virginia and Eric Smith, South Carolina State.

Coming off a 8-2 conference championship year but with only 13 lettermen returning, Brown said the team has its work cut out for them. "We've got a long way to go and only a little time to do it in," he said.

If the inexperienced players can come through under pressure and gell as a team, the Raiders can have a successful year, Brown said. "I'm counting on everyone this year."

"I expect some things from all the kids," Brown continued. "We've got a lot of kids, we try not to focus all the attention on one or two, everybody plays an important role. Sooner or later one of the front line players is going to get injured and we're going to have to depend on someone from the bench."

At such an early stage of the season its hard to make a realistic goal for the team, Brown said. "Sure, you've got things in the back of your head, but at this point our goal is just to win as many games as we can."

Last year's junior varsity squad had a superlative year, going undefeated without giving up a point in six games, Brown admitted that some prep football analysts expect big

Old rivals meet in opener

The biggest game of the year will be the first, say coaches for both Pahokee High School and Glades Central who will be facing each other in the season debut at Glades Central, Sept. 7, at 8 p.m.

Pahokee Coach Don Thompson said, "It's the big one, the biggest of our year."

Glades Central head man Dan Brown agreed, "They're always tough. Its rivalry, probably the biggest rivalry in the county and maybe in the whole state."

Both coaches said they have a long way to go before being ready for the opening game.

"But we'll be there and we'll be ready," assured Thompson.

The game, Thompson continued, will give Glades fans an early chance to see some top notch action. "Everyone should come out and see what is going to be one whale of a football game," he said.

Gators count on line

By SUZIE
MAYBURY

A strong defense helped the Glades Day School last year, but this year the team may have to rely on the offensive line.

"We lost most of our defensive players last year when they graduated," said Coach Byron Walker, Jr. "But we feel like we are going to score points this year."

Walker said last year's strength is this year's weakness and conversely, last year's weakness is this year's strength.

"Only time will tell how weak or strong we are," Walker said. "A little bit on Friday (Aug. 31 jamboree with Moore Haven) and a lot more on the 14th. We will be playing Bishop Verot (Ft. Myers) and they are—on paper—the best offensive in the state."

But Walker believes the Gator offensive line will give Bisop Verot a run for their money.

"If the offensive linemen show some maturity and approach each ballgame in a business-like fashion, they will do fine," he said. "We can't have any times of lapsing or overconfidence or any of that foolishness. They know they're good and I know they're good, but they're going to have to prove themselves every Friday night."

Walker said the Glades Day football team's main goal is to have a successful football season and "to win the first game and hopefully build from that."

depending on the offensive line to keep the team's position at the top of the district, he said it is still difficult to accurately predict any particular strengths.

"Our own district changes a lot each year and the various other regional districts also change. Our first goal is to defend the district championship and win that again," Walker said.

For the 1983 season the Gators wrapped up with a 9-1 record for the regular season. The team appeared in the playoffs and won the district title for the second consecutive year. The Gators have held that title three times in four years.

Some of the top players the Gators lost last year included Jose

Pahokee footballers stress spirit, team play

By TOM KISKEN

PAHOKEE --Team play, spirit and enthusiasm should be the characteristics of this year's Blue Devil football team, said first year Coach Don Thompson.

"The most important thing I can accomplish is to teach these young men to be good citizens, to love God and their family ... If I can do this winning will take care of itself," he said.

Thompson, a 1959 graduate of Pahokee High School and a former assistant coach with the team, moved down from Orlando last fall to accept the head coaching position. He inherits a team trying to rebound from a mediocre 5-5 season a year ago.

With only three real experience players coming back this year, the team will be battling inexperience. However, Thompson said he was very impressed with the team's performance in the spring jamboree and was confident about what the team could accomplish.

"I don't think any team would shoot less than a state championship," he said. "But at this point we're going to play our games one at a time. We think we can chalk up more wins on the board than losses."

About 25 varsity players have been working out in early practices. The one point that has been drilled into the players in early practices, Thompson said, is to think, practice and live like a team. "We don't need individuals we need a team."

Offensively, Thompson said, he hopes to be able show a diversified attack, using both a ground and air attack. Noting that it is easier to develop a ground game, than a passing of-tense, he said the team may run more early in the year. Continued on 12

Attitude key for CDS

The worst problems the Christian Day High School football team faced last year are definitely over, according to head coach James Jacks.

The biggest problems were personality conflicts between the players. "They did not have their hearts into football last year," said Jacks. "This year they do."

Jacks said this will be their biggest strength, "we have the willingness and determination to get the job done," he said. "They are a bunch of gutsy guys this year."

The major weakness they face this year, said Jacks, is the inexperience of the team. Five players graduated last year and another four transferred to other schools.

"We do not have anybody that has any experience this year," he said. "It is a real young team." Only three of the players are seniors.

The coaches have not been around long either. Jacks and offensive coordinator John Chamblee have been at Christian Day for three years and David Dailey, the line coach, has been there for two years.

The two key players, according to Jacks, are only juniors. They both were on first string last year which will help some, Jacks said. They are David Chamblee and Jojo Ramos.

The team got some much needed experience last weekend in a jamboree at St. Edwards High School. The first game is at home on Sept. 8 against Miami Country Day School.

things from these players on the varsity level, but pointed out that many of last year's junior varsity players have not returned to practice this fall. Also, the Raiders play a totally different level of competition than the junior varsity squad saw, he said. "You just can't compare the two."

So far in practice, the team is working on its offensive and defensive strategies, Brown said. "The conditioning should be just about done, we should be in peak shape."

Brown said he's not sure yet whether the Raiders offense will be running or throwing football. "I don't set out either to pass or run, I'll know when I see the kids out there in action."

A key to Raider point scoring hopes this year will be the performance of the offensive backfield where only quarterback Kenny Hammond is a proven player. Brown said he'll probably use several backfield combinations throughout the year, noting that backs Darrell Sanders and Clifford Lee have both looked good in early practices.

Both Hammond and Lionel Camel will see action at quarterback throwing to what is basically a young inexperienced corp of receivers.

The Raider's defense also is a big question mark. "I know its beginning to sound like an echo, but we've just got a lot of inexperience this year," Brown said.

"We're just going to try to be aggressive this year," Brown said.

An integral defensive unit is always the line, Brown said, noting that he has at least two undecided positions on his front four. Anthony Ware and James Rainey are both proven players who will be counted on heavily. Marty Darisaw returns to lead the defensive backfield.

Not only is this year's team inexperienced, but is facing a schedule Brown called "maybe the toughest in the county."

"Everyone we face is tough, there's not one weak team," he said.

The Raiders first three games could be the biggest of the year, Brown said, as they face Pahokee at home Sept. 7, travel to North Shore on Sept. 14 and return home against Palm Beach Gardens, Sept. 21.

The tail end of the schedule is no easier with John I. Leonard, a playoff team last year, hosting the Raiders on Nov. 2 and on Nov. 16 Cardinal Newman, which beat the Raiders last year for the district championship, comes to Belle Glade on Nov. 16.

Perez, linebacker, and Mike Schlechter, defensive back and receiver. Both students signed on with Carson Newman College in Johnson City, Tenn.

Brian Lohmann, two-time All-State defensive back and starting quarterback, and Roland Sweet, linebacker, were two other key players who graduated.

"Those four kids are the four we're having to replace on the defense. The kids that come in will have to do an outstanding job because they are replacing outstanding players," Walker said.

Walker said his team also lost an "outstanding" place kicker and punter in Schlechter, but he said the replacement is tough competition.

"(Bayan) Abraham has potential to be a better punter. He has a few wrinkles that need to be ironed out, but he'll do o'kay," he said.

This year's key players are Philip Echols, running back who was leading rusher last year and placed in the top 20 in the state.

Willie Bueno, fullback and corner-back, and Hal Lashley, center and defensive tackle, are two others Walker said should be key players. The entire offensive line Walker added to the list of noted players.

The starting players are: Timmy Kirchman, center and defensive tackle; Bruce Carter, split end and defensive back; Derek Korbly, flanker and corner back; Mirto Vigoa, tailback and defensive back; Eric Browder, fullback, offensive guard and linebacker; Jesus Hernandez, offensive tackle and defensive tackle; Hal Lashley, center and defensive tackle; Ricky Lyman, offensive guard and linebacker; Jeff Parson, offensive tackle and defensive tackle; Bayan Abraham, tight end and defensive end; J. D. Poole, tight end and linebacker; Tim Mann, split end and quarter-back and defensive back; and Philip Echols, tailback and corner back.

One of the strongest positions on the team will be quarterback with both Kenny Berry and Pell Thompson sharing the load.

Last year's starter, Berry is "a real blue chip athlete," Thompson said, who can both run and throw. Pell Thompson, the coach's son, started for a varsity prep team near Orlando last year and will see action for the Blue Devils both behind the center and as offensive guard.

Other valuable weapons for the Pahokee offense will be running back Pernelle McKelton and wide receiver Donald Edwards. Thompson said that while two backs, Curtis Dailey and Adre Peaton, have been ruled academically ineligible this year, their replacements have shown promise.

The defensive tradition of Pahokee High School is to hit and hit hard. Thompson said this year's team will follow that tradition closely. Again, the key to the defensive success will be its ability to gell into a cohesive team unit.

Some of the big hitters on this year's team include linebackers Carl Bess and Venson Jones, along with tackle Hosey Smith. "They're all good athletes, at this stage of the game they've shown they can play," Thompson said.

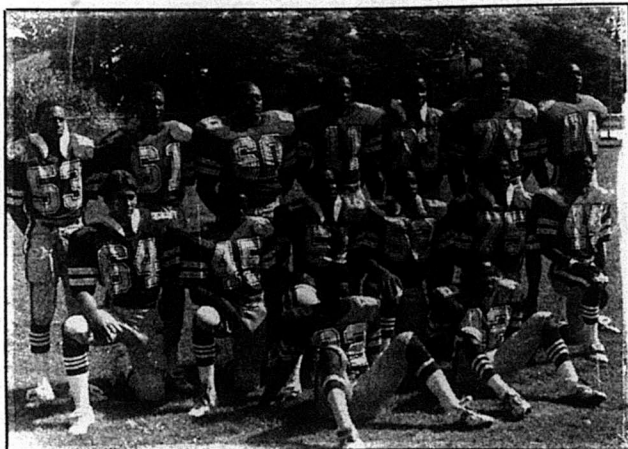

Throughout the summer, the football team have been taking advantage of a weightlifting facility called the best in the area by Thompson. He said that while the added strength will pay some dividends this fall, most of the profit will be reaped in future years.

One Thompson has said repeatedly that one of his goals at Pahokee is to give the community a team to cheer. Much of the success of the team, he said, depends on community support.

"We're confident that we can come together. Then the folks in the Glades will really see some football," he concluded.

The coaching corps at Pahokee High includes Thompson; Don Bower, offensive coordinator; Ron Dumps, assistant offensive coach; Sandy Hyneman, defensive coordinator; John Pringle, assistant defensive coach; and Jerome Govan, trainer.

Rotary donates grid money

PAHOKEE --The Pahokee Rotary Club donated $250 to the Pahokee High School football team, Thursday, Aug. 30.

Rotarian Mike Poza said the group wanted to show its support of the team and the winning spirit new coach Don Thompson has injected.

Thompson told the Rotarians that the football team needs about $20,000 to get back on its feet. It takes about $15,000 a year, he said, just to cover all the team's expenses.

Listing the expenses needed to completely outfit one player from scratch at a total of $506, Thompson told the Rotarians that all donations were gratefully appreciated.

Hopefully, Thompson said, ticket sales will bring the school around $12,000.

Thompson also said he would like to start organizing a junior high football program if financially possible. "This would give us a golden opportunity to have children play in a team unit and learn the wonderful things you pick up when you play this game."

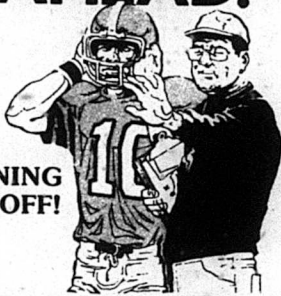

ROTARIAN Mike Poza presents Pahokee Coach Don Thompson with a check of $250, at the rotary meeting Thursday, Aug. 30.

CONDITIONING was stressed at early practices this month in hopes all players would be in the right shape to kick off the fall season.
